DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. The specification is objected to as failing to provide proper antecedent basis for the claimed subject matter. See 37 CFR 1.75(d)(1) and MPEP § 608.01(o). Correction of the following is required: The specification fails to provide support for the phrase "damping plate" in line 2 of claim 29.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 19, 29, and 31 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by DE-19601435 (DE'435).

Re: claims 19 and 31. DE'435 shows in figure 5 a brake pad and brake piston assembly comprising a brake piston as labeled in the figure on pg. 3 having an axis and an outer surface encircled by a circumferential groove, a first side 54, second or side 54, and third retaining spring top 54 coupled to a brake pad, wherein the first, second, and third retaining springs engage the circumferential groove as shown, thereby detachably coupling the brake pad to the piston, wherein the first and second retaining springs are arranged opposite each other with respect to the piston axis and wherein the first and second retaining springs each include a spring portion which applies an axial spring force at a contact point location on opposite sides of the piston to urge the brake pad against the piston, and wherein the third retaining spring includes a spring portion which applies a radial spring force (by virtue of the downward contacting force) to the brake pad at one contact point location in a vertical direction which is generally perpendicular to the piston axis, wherein the first, second, and third retaining springs are separate from one another.

Re: claim 29. DE'435 shows in figure 5 a retaining plate (in an alternate interpretation is the plate connected to the brake pad (in the interpretation of claim 19 the plate connected to the brake pad (lining) is the carrier plate) configured as a damping plate and at least one retaining member shown in the area of element 8 configured as a hook for embracing one of the first second and third retaining springs via the circular portion of element 55 wherein the at least one retaining member is attached to the retaining plate and to at least one of the first second and third retaining springs via the circular portion of element 55.

Allowable Subject Matter

4. Claim 28 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments with respect to the claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

6. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP

§ 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
